Message from the Co-Directors

The words we heard most over 2020 were "what a year". 2020 was full of challenges and changes. CIBEL responded to the unexpected changes to work and life swiftly while accommodating the new working model and picking up technological skills quickly.

This was true of CIBEL and everyone at CIBEL. The first half of 2020 was in turmoil following the restrictions and uncertainty caused by COVID-19. The team promptly shifted its research focus to pandemic-related issues and changed events from face-to-face to virtual with the substantial assistance of our able and flexible administrators.

In June 2020, CIBEL members authored op-ed pieces on the impact of the pandemic on their fields of research. The articles were published on the CIBEL website as blog posts. Many of our members spoke about the impact of the pandemic on their research areas on multiple occasions both locally and internationally. We thank CIBEL members' for their quick response at such a chaotic time.

We would also like to highlight CIBEL's success in hosting virtual events, including the 2020 CIBEL Global Network Conference and Young Scholars Workshop from June to September, the inaugural JCICEL events including the workshops in August and the public conference in October. 47 non-CIBEL speakers joined CIBEL events remotely from 13 countries and regions and CIBEL had more than 1,000 registrations for its 2020 events from all over the world. We sincerely thank all the event participants for their support.

In addition to the historic pandemic, the current relationship between Australia and China posed questions surrounding the future of trade between the two countries. CIBEL members were involved in many discussions on this issue in Australia and internationally.

2020 was the third year of CIBEL's partnership with Herbert Smith Freehills. CIBEL is grateful to have the support of the firm and access to resources for research collaboration, event participation and student engagement. We thank the firm for its flexibility in arranging the Herbert Smith Freehills CIBEL Asia-Pacific Pathway Program for UNSW students and coordinating with the organisation of some of the major CIBEL events in 2020. Our audiences benefit from the views of HSF colleagues as reflected in our research and presentations.

2020 was a tough year. CIBEL members and staff

reacted quickly and turned it into a very fruitful year for members and stakeholders. As directors we are very grateful for the tireless work of all CIBEL members and staff, and the support from our partners, board members, event participants, audiences and the community. CIBEL looks forward to continuing its work in 2021.

Very best wishes.

About CIBEL

A world leading research centre dedicated to China-related international economic and business law issues.

Our Vision

Herbert Smith Freehills China International Business and Economic Law Centre (CIBEL) was established at UNSW Law (renamed as UNSW Law & Justice from 1 January 2021) in 2015 as a long-term strategic initiative devoted to enhancing the research and teaching on business and economic law issues involving China and Australia. It entered a partnership with the global law firm Herbert Smith Freehills in 2018.

CIBEL contributes to the debate on topical issues in the field of international economic and business law in a post-pandemic world. With the largest number of Chinese scholars of international business and economic law in any law school outside China, CIBEL supports the on-going research of its members and associates and actively engages with academia, government, industry and the public.

Our Expertise

CIBEL specialises in a broad range of issues in the CIBEL field, including Chinese, Australian and global perspectives on:

- > International Economic Law
- > International and Comparative Law
- > International Investment Law
- > International Trade Law
- > International Dispute Settlement and Commercial Arbitration
- > International Financial and Monetary Law
- > International and Comparative Competition Law
- > Intellectual Property Law
- > Chinese International Business Law

2020 highlights

2020 CIBEL Global Network Conference and Young Scholars Workshop

As a result of the travel restrictions, the 2020 CIBEL Global Network Conference and Young Scholars Workshop were hosted virtually and fortnightly between 25 June and 3 September 2020 on the theme of “COVID-19 and international economic law: China and a changing world”.

There were nine x 90-minute sessions. These included five Conference panels and four Young Scholars Workshop sessions. These involved 45 chairs, speakers and commentators from leading universities and institutes around the world and attracted almost 800 registrants.

The 2020 CIBEL Global Network Young Scholar Prize was awarded to Mr Lance Ang of National Singapore University for his paper “International Commercial Courts and the Interplay Between Realism and Institutionalism – A Look at China and Singapore”.

The 2020 CIBEL Global Network PhD Prize was awarded to Mr Philip Rogers of the University of California, Berkeley for his paper “Power in Moderation: Understanding the Tolerated Circumvention of China’s Foreign Direct Investment Regime”.

A post-event edited book will be published. Nine book chapters from the conference were accepted. It is expected that the edited book will be submitted by the end of 2020.

Outstanding Research Achievements

CIBEL is delighted to see that Professor Heng Wang was named Australia’s leader in the research field of International Law by The Australian’s Research 2020 magazine in September 2020. Heng had the highest number of citations from papers published in the 20 top journals in this field over the past five years. His journal article titled “China’s Approach to the Belt and Road Initiative: Scope, Character and Sustainability” published in a 2019 issue of the Journal of International Economic Law (JIEL, Oxford University Press) also was ranked as one of the Highly Cited Articles of JIEL. As per Altmetric, the article is ranked 1st among outputs of that time from JIEL, 7th out of totally 289 JIEL outputs, and in the top 5% of all research outputs tracked by Altmetric.

HSF-CIBEL APAC Pathways Program

The pilot HSF-CIBEL APAC Pathways Program was held in September 2020. Two UNSW Law JD students finished their two-week internships with colleagues in the Beijing and Sydney offices of Herbert Smith Freehills. The program was originally planned for May 2020 and was deferred due to the pandemic. Thanks to Herbert Smith Freehills’ flexibility, one student completed the internship remotely in Sydney and the other worked in the Beijing Office. The students gained valuable work experience and skills from the program as well as broadened their visions in choosing the future career paths.

JCICEL Workshop and Conference

The Tsinghua-UNSW Joint Research Centre for International Commercial and Economic Law (JCICEL) was established in late 2019 to enhance the collaboration and discussion in International Commercial and Economic Law between UNSW Law and Tsinghua University Law School.

On 12 August 2020 CIBEL hosted a JCICEL workshop via Zoom. CIBEL and Tsinghua University colleagues presented their work in two streams, “Technology, Business and International Economic Law” and “Competition Law and International Economic Law”. Colleagues from key partner Herbert Smith Freehills were invited to participate in the workshop.

The inaugural JCICEL Conference “Law and Technology: International Regulations” was held on 21 September 2020. There were more than 300 registrations for the three sessions. Following the opening remarks of the Deans of UNSW Law and Tsinghua University Law School, two international invited speakers delivered keynotes on the challenges of the WTO Appellate Body and digital currency and Regtech. Nine Scholars from CIBEL and Tsinghua University presented or commented on papers.

Grants

In 2020, CIBEL submitted eight Australian government grant applications which are discussed in more detail below.

Academic Excellence

Research Achievements

CIBEL values and appreciates its members for their diligent research. CIBEL members may have been recognised by the University and more broadly, the public, in 2020.

As noted previously, In September 2020, Professor Heng Wang was named as Australia's leader in the research field of International Law by The Australian's Research 2020 magazine.

Professor Wang's journal article titled "China's Approach to the Belt and Road Initiative: Scope, Character and Sustainability" was listed as one of the highly cited articles of Journal of International Economic Law (JIEL). The JIEL is published by the Oxford University Press and it is, according to Google Scholar, one of the top three journals in the field of international law. The article was published in a 2019 issue of the JIEL and as per Altmetric, it is ranked 1st among outputs of a similar age from JIEL, 7th out of the total of 289 JIEL outputs scored by Altmetric, and in the top 5% of all the nearly 16 million research outputs tracked by Altmetric. It has been read or downloaded by over 5,600 times via academic websites such as ResearchGate and has been viewed by nearly 4,500 times on the OUP website.

In 2020, Dr Weihuan Zhou was promoted to Associate Professor following his outstanding achievements as a researcher and teacher. He was also elected as a Co-Secretary of the Society of International Economic Law (SIEL) in an internal meeting in December 2020 after his two years' service as an Executive Council member since 2018.

Grant Applications

Government grants

CIBEL members submitted five Australian Research Council (ARC) Discovery Project submissions in February 2020. Whilst unsuccessful overall, two CIBEL applications ranked in the top 10% of unsuccessful proposals, which indicates that they were strong proposals. One of these grants will be further developed and submitted again next year.

In September, CIBEL submitted an application for DFAT's National Foundation for Australia-China Relations (NFACR) Grants on the proposed project "Promoting Australia China Relationships: Maintaining and Expanding Links with Chinese Universities". There was an overwhelming number of applications and only a small number were partially funded but the Foundation recognised in feedback that the CIBEL application was strong.

Non-government grants

In January 2020, CIBEL's Professor Heng Wang, Professor Deborah Healey, Professor Ross Buckley, UNSW Arts & Social Sciences' Associate Professor Elizabeth Thurbon secured funding of $10,000 via the SJTU-UNSW Collaborative Research Seed Grant towards their project titled "China's New Approach to Currency: Central Bank Digital Currency as a Game Changer in World Economy?".

Dr Weihuan Zhou has secured an external grant of Institute of European Studies of Macau Grants 2020 for a total of MOP$60,000 for his project "Between Market Economy and State Capitalism: China's State-Owned Enterprises and the World Trading System" in collaboration with Associate Professor Henry Gao from Singapore Management University. A further MOP$25,000 will be provided upon publication of the report.

Welcoming New Member and New Fellow

In April 2020, CIBEL welcomed Professor Leon Trakman as a formal CIBEL member. Professor Trakman has authored over 150 publications, including 11 books in his specialised areas including jurisprudence, international trade and investment law. He has also specialised in comparative law, emphasising common and civil law.

Associate Professor Huiqin Jiang of Zhejiang Sci-Tech University joined CIBEL as a new fellow in August 2020. Associate Professor Jiang is a UNSW Law PhD alumnus who presented at both the 2019 and 2020 CIBEL Global Network Young Scholars Workshops. She was the winner of the 2019 CIBEL Global Network Young Scholar Prize and has had several collaborative projects with CIBEL members.

Visiting Scholars

In November 2019, CIBEL welcomed Professor Xinya Mao from China Executive Leadership Academy Pudong (CELAP) as a Visiting Professor to UNSW Law and CIBEL for 6 months. Professor Mao is the director of the Belt and Road Research Centre at CELAP. During her visit, she presented at a CIBEL lunch seminar in February 2020 on the topic of "Belt and Road Initiative and China's Progressive Opening-up Pattern" and submitted a journal paper arising from that session. Professor Mao returned to her home institute in May 2020.

In January 2020, Assistant Professor Maciej Bernatt visited CIBEL for one month to collaborate with Professor Deborah Healey. Assistant Professor Bernatt is Head of the Department of European Economic Law, University of Warsaw, Poland.

Professor Huiping Chen of Xiamen University Law School and Deputy Secretary-General of Chinese Society of International Economic Law made a 12-month visit to CIBEL from January to December 2020 and returned to her home institute. Despite the pandemic posing difficulties with collaboration, Professor Chen worked with Professor Heng Wang and Dr Lu Wang during her visit. She presented virtually at the 2020 CIBEL Global Network Conference Panel on investment law.

Yifang Zhao from China's University of International Business and Economics finished his six months' visit at CIBEL as a visiting student via the UNSW Study Abroad Practicum Program in the first half of 2020.

2020 T3	Heng Wang & Lu Wang	LAWS3157/JURD7657	Chinese Regulation of International Business	35

CIBEL is delighted to collaborate with colleagues from Herbert Smith Freehills in delivering CIBEL courses in the format of guest lectures, student Q&A, and video interviews to diversify the learning experience of the enrolled UNSW Law students. More details will be covered in page 11.

CPD Course

On 27 March 2020, CIBEL delivered a Continuing Professional Development (CPD) course remotely via UNSW EDGE. Three CIBEL members gave lectures on "BRI – What is it, the opportunities and its future" (Professor Heng Wang), "A behind-the-scenes look at Arbitration in China including tips for successful Arbitration" (Associate Professor Kun Fan), and "US-China trade war: legal Issues, challenges and solutions" (Dr Weihuan Zhou).

The course went smoothly with very positive feedback from the UNSW EDGE.

Engagement

Key Partnerships

Herbert Smith Freehills

CIBEL continued to collaborate closely with Herbert Smith Freehills (HSF) in terms of research, events, teaching and student engagement in 2020.

Research

In light of the COVID-19 pandemic, CIBEL provided monthly updates on member's research projects, inviting HSF collaboration. CIBEL also encouraged HSF colleagues to partner on op-ed pieces.

Events

CIBEL was delighted to have colleagues from HSF sharing their insights and experience from the perspective of legal practitioners at multiple CIBEL events in 2020. CIBEL appreciates HSF's support and looks forward to engaging more with HSF colleagues in future events. 2020 events are listed below.

Term	Event	HSF Colleague
25 June 2020	2020 CIBEL Global Network Conference Panel on "COVID-19: Will competition law and policy revert to the status quo?"	Adelaide Luke, Partner & Head of Competition (Asia), HSF Hong Kong
25 June 2020	2020 CIBEL Global Network Conference Panel on "COVID-19: Will competition law and policy revert to the status quo?"	Frances Xu, Partner, Kewei, HSF Mainland China
3 September 2020	2020 CIBEL Global Network Conference Panel on "COVID-19 and digitalisation of dispute resolution"	Guillermo Garcia-Perrote, Senior Associate, HSF Sydney

As CIBEL's key strategic partner, HSF was given an exclusive invitation to attend the non-public JCICEL workshop on 12 August 2020.

Teaching

As an ongoing collaboration, Brenda Horrigan, Head of International Arbitration (Australia) at HSF, gave a guest lecture in Dr Weihuan Zhou's elective course International Business Transaction on 22 October 2020.

James Gong (Of Counsel, Mainland China at HSF) and Weina Ye (International Partner, Kewei, Mainland China) participated in Q&As and engaged with students as part of Professor Heng Wang and Dr Lu Wang's CIBEL elective course Chinese Regulation of International Business on 28 October 2020 and 11 November 2020. Moreover, three prior interviews with James Gong, Adelaide Luke (Partner, Head of Competition, Asia) and Karen Ip (Partner, Hong Kong) in 2019 were used as online contents for this course in Term 3 2020.

Student Engagement

Two UNSW Law students were selected through a competitive application process for a 2-week internship at HSF via the HSF-CIBEL APAC Pathways Program. As previously mentioned, this pilot program was originally scheduled to run in May 2020 but was delayed to 31 August to 11 September due to COVID-19 restrictions. Thanks to HSF's flexibility in addressing the impact of COVID-19 on travel and working arrangements, one student worked with Monica Sun and Calvin Ho in the Project Team of the HSF Beijing office whilst the other student worked remotely with Toby Anderson in the Energy Team of the Sydney office.

In light of the success of the pilot HSF-CIBEL APAC Pathways Program, CIBEL has proposed further initiatives to further enhance student engagement with HSF in the coming year.

Tsinghua University

CIBEL collaborates with Tsinghua University Law School through the Tsinghua-UNSW Joint Research Centre for International Commercial and Economic Law (JCICEL).

JCICEL Workshop

On 12 August CIBEL hosted the inaugural JCICEL workshop via Zoom. At this 2-hour workshop, colleagues from CIBEL and Tsinghua University presented their work in two streams: "Technology, Business and International Economic Law," and "Competition Law and International Economic Law". As the main partner of CIBEL, colleagues from Herbert Smith Freehills were invited to participate. The workshop attracted 39 participants.

Associate Dean International and Acting Head of School Associate Professor Christine Forster welcomed the participants, and the Dean of Tsinghua University Law School Professor Weixing Shen gave the opening remarks.

JCICEL Conference

The inaugural JCICEL Conference was held on 21 September 2020 under the title "Law and Technology: International Regulations". The 3-session conference had more than 300 registrations.

In opening remarks, Acting Dean of UNSW Law Professor Andrew Lynch emphasised the long-standing relationship between UNSW Law and Tsinghua University Law School, particularly through CIBEL. Dean of Tsinghua University Law School, Professor Weixing Shen indicated that international collaboration between the two institutions is urgently needed in the field of international commercial law and economic law.

WTO Appellate Body Former Chair and Judge, Professor Yuejiao Zhang of Tsinghua University gave a keynote on the challenges of the WTO Appellate Body, and the Director of the Asian Institute of International Financial Law at the University of Hong Kong, Professor Douglas Arner, gave a keynote on digital currency and Regtech, respectively.

Five CIBEL members including Associate Professor Alexandra George, Associate Professor Charlie Xiaochuan Weng, Associate Professor Kun Fan, Dr Weihuan Zhou and Dr Lu Wang and CIBEL PhD Candidate Mr Simon Lacey presented at the conference. CIBEL's Co-Director Professor Deborah Healey chaired the first session and welcomed all guests, speakers and audience, while Professor Heng Wang chaired the last session and closed the conference.

Tsinghua University Law School's Associate Professor Shujie Feng, Associate Professor Guobin Cui, Professor Weizuo Chen spoke. The Associate Dean of Tsinghua University Law School, Associate Professor Simin Gao, chaired.

Other Collaborations

In October 2020, Professor Heng Wang discussed "cross-border investment in a post-COVID world" at the business environment and international investment session of the 2020 Tsinghua World Forum on the Rule of Law.

In November 2020, the collaborative project of Professor Heng Wang and Associate Professor Simin Gao of Tsinghua University Law School, titled "Network Analysis of Central Bank Digital Currency: The Future of International Monetary System", was accepted to present at the Machine Lawyering's 2021 Conference on "Human Sovereignty and Machine Efficiency in the Law", organised by the Faculty of Law of The Chinese University of Hong Kong in January 2021.

Professor Deborah Healey spoke at a conference held by the Hong Kong Competition Commission in April on COVID and its implications for competition law.

2020 CIBEL Global Network

In response to the impact of COVID-19 on businesses and the global economy, CIBEL has brought forward the 2020 Global Network Conference and Young Scholars Workshop with the theme "COVID-19 and international economic law: China and a changing world". The series commenced on 25 June and run as a 90-minute session virtually every fortnight through to 3 September 2020.

There were five sessions for the conference panels and four sessions for the full-day Global Network Young Scholars Workshop on 20 August 2020.

38 non-CIBEL speakers from 13 countries and regions participated in the 2020 Global Network events as presenter, chair, or commentator. There were a total of 780 registrations for the nine sessions.

Social Impact

Performance of CIBEL Media Channels

CIBEL Website

In 2020, 50 news articles were published on the CIBEL website, in both English and Chinese, covering a wide range of topics from CIBEL member's research output and achievements, to the organisation of CIBEL events. 17 videos were uploaded to the website with more than 500 views. These included recordings of the 2020 CIBEL Global Network events, the 2020 JCICEL Conference and clips of CIBEL members' media appearances.

According to Google Analytics, CIBEL website has gained a total of 27,909 page views from users located in 35 countries and regions. The home page (cibel.unsw.edu.au) alone has been accessed 4,109 times, while the 2020 Global Network Call for Papers has 1,452 views

Social Media

CIBEL continued to expand its network and engage with internal and external stakeholders via social media. In mid-May 2020, CIBEL created an official LinkedIn account. CIBEL has posted 44 updates with a total of 5,113 organic impressions and an average organic engagement rate of 8.0%. The account attracted 130 followers by the end of 2020.

Twitter remained an important channel for CIBEL to have its voice heard quickly and broadly. In 2020, 74 tweets were posted with a total impression of 94,400 through CIBEL's Twitter handle. The account attracted 88 new followers, reaching almost 500 followers.

Electronic Direct Mail (eDM)

eDM has been used as a tool to communicate with CIBEL audiences. As a major regular digital marketing campaign, four issues of the CIBEL quarterly newsletters were delivered to 957 readers, an increase of 218 compared with the figure at the end of the last reporting year. The newsletters were viewed 3,420 times and clicked 367 times.

CIBEL has integrated eDM to increase the reach of CIBEL events. In 2020, CIBEL delivered nine direct invitations to its subscribers. The invitations were collectively opened 9,152 times and clicked 1,113 times.

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, CIBEL started sending monthly updates to its Advisory Group members and key contacts from June 2020. This helped CIBEL to keep its key stakeholders informed about CIBEL's operation and the progress of CIBEL members' research on a regular basis.

Media Appearance

In 2020, CIBEL members appeared in the media 71 times, including four live TV interviews, three live radio interviews, 12 op-ed pieces and one blog post. Many of the news reports or interviews were cited by other media outlets.

In May 2020, Dr Weihuan Zhou and Professor Heng Wang appeared in the media 21 times, providing views on the emerging Australia-China trade tension from a legal perspective to media outlets including the ABC, SBS, the Australian Financial Review, The Australian, The Guardian, the Lowy Institute, the Conversation and the South China Morning Post, etc. These CIBEL members have been constantly approached by journalists to comment on the intensifying trade tensions throughout the second half of the year.
