

UNSW Law & Justice Herbert Smith Freehills CIBEL Pathway Program 2021

It's never too early to start building your future in law.

Herbert Smith Freehills is offering up to four UNSW law students the chance to participate in a paid internship in their Sydney and Hong Kong or Shanghai offices – an opportunity providing invaluable experience and first-class training, working across a global network on high-profile cases and deals involving some of the world's biggest clients.

About the program

The program will run from 17 – 28 May 2021 (Term 1 break). Accommodation and flights will be covered for the Asia portion of the program, and you will be paid at a competitive rate.

In the event that international travel is not possible at that time, the program will take place in our Sydney office or Greater China if you are located there. Students will work with one of the local teams in-person and one of our Hong Kong/Shanghai/Sydney teams remotely

Following the program you will be invited to apply for Herbert Smith Freehills' Sydney or Hong Kong vacation scheme programs

To be eligible for the program, students must:

- have fluent Mandarin language skills (both written and oral)
- be studying an undergraduate law or a JD course at UNSW
- plan to graduate in 2022 or later

Applications are now open

Applications close: Tuesday 2 March 2021

Herbert Smith Freehills partner interviews (and Mandarin language test): Week commencing Monday 25 March 2021

Selection – Successful candidates notified: Tuesday 6 April 2021
